A GOOD story came out of San Francisco a few months ago. According to the tale, Mr. Jeffrics and Mr. Johnson met accidentally in Harry Corbett's place. Mr. Jeffrics and Mr. Johnson met accidentally in Harry Corbett's place. Mr. Jehnson didn't know Jeff was there when he came in Jeffrics, who was tired of the came in Jeffrics, who was tired of the challenges directed at him by the big days of their mariled life and did not take her to places of amusement.

Magistrate Higginbotham pronounced the unique sentence on Williams and dismissed him and his wife, directing First RACE—Three-versells and dismissed him and his wife, directing First RACE—Three-versells and dismissed him and his wife, directing First RACE—Three-versells and dismissed him and his wife, directing First RACE—Three-versells and dismissed him and his wife, directing First RACE—Three-versells and the head to kiss his wife daily and take her to Coney Island.

"Now," said Jeff, "you so down in the cellar with me-right down here in the cellar. If you come out first you can have that $5,000. If I come out I'll promise to domate it to the hospital that takes care of you."

"Deah Misto Jeffries," said Mr. Johnson then, "deah Misto Jeffries, I ain't no cellar fighter. When I fight I want it to be up in a ring, with lights and people all around and a referee. I ain't no cellar fighter. No, sir!"

Johnson is one of the big fellows who make Jeffries look so great. Many heavy-weights have some of the champion's qualities. No one else has them all. If Johnson had Jeff's steady and aggressive courage he would be a world heater. He's a champion when with the standard out the Court's mandate.

It developed to-day that the Williamses had quietly slipped into Judge Higgin-botham's chambers and delivered the happy message above set forth.

"And have you kissed your wife. Williams's easyer was a resounding smack printed full on his wife's lips in the presence of the court. The Magistrate was so thoroughly satisfied that he at once dismissed the case against Williams and sent the happy pair away with the judicial blessing.

St. Louis Fans So Taken with the Playing of the New Yorkers that They Are Anxious to Bet They Will Finish First, Second or Third.

BY ALLEN SANGREE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 26.—The sporting fraternity of this city, in spite of a Governor who has closed everything except the drug stores, wish to announce that they will take any bet at even money on the Highlanders' chance of finishing this season one, two, three. No better judges of baseball are to be found than out here, where they sometimes chase the umpire with knives and pistols. They have seen all the American League teams play, and reckon that New York is good, if not better than Chicago, Cleveland and Philladelphia. Detroit and Boston they do not reckon as rivals.

It is somewhat unusual for the fans here to be so liberal-minded. They have not made it unpleasant for New York players, as is their wont, but seem that they can only keep up the pace at home noble. At times he cented out like an old-fashioned bat rock and seeled bad throws with one mit; again here to be so liberal-minded. They have not made it unpleasant for New York players, as is their wont, but seem that they can only keep up the pace at home.

One of the biggest "kikings" of the meeting was made yesterday at the Brighton Beach race-course on Huntington, in the last race. This horse, a nve-year-old malden, belonging to A. Winant, by Buck Massie-Ethel S., was backed from $ to 1 to 2 to 1. All the big plungers at the track had the tip on him, and the wayshay poured money into the ring made the bookmakers weary, and they asked:

"Why not make a boulevard of Seventh avenue?"

The Evening World put the question to President Ahearn, of the Borough of Manhattan, who must take the first official step toward an improvement of this kind.

President Ahearn, a progressive man, replied:

"The plean seems a good one. It would certainly be a fine improvement to that section of Harlem, to be earloyed by the whole city, and I will look into it.
